MAISON LES ALEXANDRINS, A DOMAIN OF TODAY... CLASSICISM REVISITED

Maison Les Alexandrins is the natural evolution of the former Maison Nicolas Perrin. Building on its success since 2007, named wine merchant of the year in 2011 by the magazine the “Revue du Vin de France”, Maison Nicolas Perrin is continuing its development in the Rhone Valley by drawing on the talents of men of great expertise and rooting itself in a terroir in the heart of Crozes-Hermitage - Domaine Les Alexandrins. In this way, the wines of Maison Les Alexandrins are the natural extension of all the work undertaken at the estate. More modern in its approach (since there is a limited offering from the domain, there is now an additional range, which was not traditionally the case), with a more contemporary style (seeking perfect harmony from the outset, for wines that are easier to drink whilst young), it also proposes a more varied palette of Northern Rhone wines (not only Crozes and Saint-Joseph). This range is our invitation to the world to look at and interpret the traditions of the Northern Rhone Valley from a new perspective. We offer a style that is both contemporary and timeless, based on the exceptional terroirs discovered by Alexandre Caso, the specialist in the terroirs of the Northern Rhone Valley, with eight references that embody a thoroughly up-to-date classicism.
